LAVINEA 2014 PINOT NOIR TUALATIN VINEYARD WILLAMETTE VALLEY, OREGON

TASTING NOTES:

Tualatin Estate shows more complex old world aromas and textures, cementing that sense of place. Where it was once fragrances of fresh cherries, dusty rose and soft anise notes, the wine is evolving towards dried cherries, baking spice of mace and gingerbread, eucalyptus and tea box notes. The palate is laced with raspberry notes, dried cherries, and stewed strawberries layered with Christmas cake, all balanced with fresh acidity and supple tannin structure that lasts. A wine that will delight as complex fruit intertwines with aged character of true Pacific Northwest notes: bramble berry, forest floor and cedar.

WINERY INFO:

Founded in 2014, Lavinea is committed to becoming a benchmark producer of wines of place in the Willamette Valley, crafting wines that represent the purest voice of site-specific terroir from each of our vineyards. Defining LAVINEA: "LA" prefixed to the Latin "VINEA", meaning 'of the vine, or of the vineyard.' LAVINEA's wines express the unique voice of each vineyard site.

Tualatin Estate Vineyard, established in 1973, is one of the oldest and most respected vineyard sites in Oregon's Willamette Valley. Wine grapes from this 145-acre vineyard have produced world-renowned wines for over 40 years.

BOHEME 2017 'THE WEST POLE' PINOT NOIR SONOMA COAST

TASTING NOTES:

The 2017 Pinot Noir Sonoma Coast boasts a big, opulent bouquet of assorted red and black fruits as well as plenty of classic Sonoma Coast spice, dried flowers, and leafy herbs. Rounded, medium-bodied, and elegant, it's an outstanding Pinot Noir geared for drinking over the coming 5-6 years. This wine comes from the English Hill, Taylor Ridge, and Stuller vineyards (all on the Sonoma Coast) and was 70% destemmed and spent 21 months all in used barrels.

WINERY INFO:

Bohème was founded in 2004 near the town of Occidental. Winemaker/proprietor Kurt Beitler comes from a long line of wine royalty; Chuck Wagner (Caymus) is his uncle. But Kurt stands on his own far out on the Sonoma Coast wilderness, sourcing fruit from top vineyard sites.

Bohème is devoted to winegrowing on California's Sonoma Coast. It's namesake Bohemian Highway meanders Sonoma's Coast Range of redwoods, valleys and farms. Crafting wine from this place is a formidable, yet deeply fulfilling, endeavor. The frontiers are numerous: vine nutrition, pruning technique, trellising, soil biology, cover crops, grape chemistry, fermentation, cooperage, élevage and others. A complete grasp of but one can take a lifetime. They take great efforts to expand their knowledge and bottle a most captivating wine, yet Mother Nature is the true maker of wine—and stands within each of a vintner's moves. Indeed it's nature's unknown that gives magic to great wine.

Thirty-one Pinot Noir barrels from the Bohème single-vineyard program were selected for the 2017 vintage of West Pole Pinot Noir. Each component was estate-grown (including six Pinot Noir selections averaging 30% whole cluster fermentation) and aged 21 months in 10% new French Oak barrels.
